Critical Care Units - Emotional/Spiritual

The Critical Care Team is sensitive to providing holistic patient care. We believe that includes care of the mind, body and spirit. We believe that care for our patient includes care for you, their family and friends.

- How can we care for your family member's emotional and spiritual needs?
- How can we care for your emotional and spiritual needs during this time of critical illness?

Every patient and family has a unique history, culture and experience. We know that your needs are unique and personal. Some people may find it helpful to talk about their thoughts and feelings with a trained professional, such as a social worker. Some may find guided imagery or prayer with a chaplain helpful in promoting wellness. Some find support through connections with their own faith community. Others find relaxation through integrative therapies in therapeutic touch, Reiki or massage therapy. (Integrative Medicine can be reached at 860-545-4444, or visit their web site.)

Social Workers are trained professionals with Bachelors or Masters Degrees in Social Work. Requests for Social Work Services come from a variety of sources including patients, families, or hospital staff. If you think a social worker may be helpful to you or your family member, please feel free to request to speak with the unit-based social worker or call 860-545-2966.

You may benefit from talking with a social worker if you:

- Need someone to listen to your concerns
- Are worried about the future
- Are feeling sad, depressed or frustrated
- Have concerns about abuse, neglect, or exploitation
- Are looking for counseling or guidance
- Need information about your (or your loved one's) condition

Please let any team member know what your needs are so we can care for you.
